Stewardship

This weekend we have sign ups for our hosting of Family Promise this month (Aug 19-26). Kathey Hodges will be at the Family Promise table ready to sign you up for the tasks that need doing. You can choose from the following ministries: 1. donating of food items for breakfast, lunches or stocking the Monsignor House; 2. preparing supper meal, delivering it, and providing the hospitality of your presence, and cleaning up; 3. staying overnight from about 7:30 pm to 5:30 am; 4. cleaning the Monsignor House (this will take place from 9-10:30 on Saturday, August 11); or 5. bringing in the cots and making them up (we have a family who leads this so you will help them and they will show you what to do).

Our Lord has a heart for all of us whether we are economically poor, spiritually poor, mentally poor, or physically poor. He love us so completely and longs for us to be in relationship with Him. Jesus is the sustenance, the BREAD that “always” feeds us and “always” quenches our thirsts. He calls us to Him from every nook and cranny of our lives. He calls us to serve one another as He serves us. Thank you for praying for Family Promise. Thank you for all your service to Family Promise. You are needed and you are welcome.

The Monsignor House will be open on Wednesday, August 8 from 9:00-11:00 to receive donations, talk about the direction of Family Promise, or to tour the Monsignor House. We never know who of our parishioners will show up. The front door will be open and the coffee will be on. Come on over! If you have been thinking about this please call Kathie & leave a message @ 781.5033.

Liturgical Bits and Bytes: Kisses What is it about kissing at Mass? The priest kisses the altar. Twice. The deacon or priest kisses the Gospel book. We kiss each other at the Sign of Peace. The newly married may show their love “in an appropriate way.” What’s going on?

The custom of Christians kissing goes clear back to the New Testament. Paul, by no stretch a romantic, urged Christians to greet one another with a holy kiss (Rom 16:16), and Peter suggested a kiss of love (1 Pet 5:14).

Kissing the altar first appeared in the fourth century. People used to kiss the threshold of the building they entered in respect. At Mass the kiss switched to the altar, which symbolized Christ, the cornerstone of the church. By the middle ages most altars contained relics of martyrs so the kiss honored them as well. Today the priest greets the people with “The Lord be with you,” but he also greets the altar—the presence of Christ, and the holy place where Mass will follow.

Kissing the Gospel book carries a similar meaning. We recognize the presence of Christ in the book that speaks good news. The kiss of the altar at the end of the Mass is the farewell counterpart of the entrance kiss.

From the third century, a kiss of peace was given to new Christians after baptism. Today, when the bishop offers peace to the newly confirmed, he imitates that baptismal ritual. A priest who confirms the newly baptized at Easter might offer the same greeting.

Strangely, the rite of marriage doesn’t always invite the couple to kiss. If the wedding takes place at Mass, they’ll get a chance at the Sign of Peace along with the rest of the assembly. If there is no Mass, the rite never alludes to the kiss. But since the introduction encourages local adaptations, a little improvisation might help.

The kiss we know best is the Sign of Peace. When the Roman rite was first formulated, it called for a real smack. Society must have been a lot smoochier than it is today. Still, some moderns restrain too much. When a married couple chooses a handshake instead of a kiss, it makes one wonder what sign they’re really giving.

When at Mass, prepare to pucker. Paul Turner
